

HSIR Interns/Students

2014-2026

The Health Services and Informatics Research (HSIR) internship provides students with hands on research experience while working directly with research scientists on internal and externally funded projects. Interns contribute to every stage of the research process, including study design, project implementation, data analysis, and dissemination of findings. Through this experience, students develop practical research skills, strengthen their resumes, and prepare for future careers. Internships are offered in person, remotely, or in a hybrid format.
